Jim Dearman, a native of Smithville, Tennessee, is the producer and host of the Good News Today television and radio program, overseen by the elders of the Dunlap, TN church, where he and wife, Janis, are members. Jim now devotes full-time to the broadcasting work and to preaching and teaching appointments. Also, for several years, he has served as master of ceremonies for the annual Great Smoky Mountain Marriage Retreat.

A graduate of the University of Tennessee with a degree in communications, he also attended Memphis School of Preaching and earned his Master's degree at Alabama Christian School of Religion (now Amridge University).

He has preached for over forty years and has served as a located preacher in Alabama, Tennessee, and Texas. He also worked with the church in Klang, Malaysia, and, upon returning from Southeast Asia, taught at the Memphis School of Preaching.

The Dearmans have three children and six grandchildren.

Watch Good News Today at www.gnttv.org

Wayne Jones has served as the pulpit preacher for the University church of Christ in San Marcos, TX since May 2007. He and his wife, Shana Kaye have been happily married since 1996 and have four beautiful daughters: Hannah (20), Ashlyn (18), Bailey (14), and Karsyn (11); and a son-in-law, Chant.

Wayne graduated from the Memphis School of Preaching in 1996. He holds a B.A. and M.S. from Amridge University. He has been preaching fulltime since he was 19 years old.

Before moving to Texas, Wayne and his family worked with congregations in Luxora, AR, Newbern, TN, and Southaven, MS. He serves as the founding director of Focal Point, a ministry workshop hosted in May of each year in San Marcos, TX.

Wayne is an instructor at the Southwest School of Bible Studies. He has worked extensively in Christian youth camps, lecture programs, Gospel meetings, and mission efforts in Jamaica.

Wayne's father, father-in-law, and brother-in-law are all Gospel preachers.
